One day Symposium on
"Computational Sciences"
25th August, 2022.

The Department of Computer Science and Applications in collaboration with the Department of Statistics organized a one day Symposium on "Computational Sciences" on 25th August, 2022. The motive of the symposium was to highlight the relationship between mathematics, statistics and computer science and to promote multidisciplinarity as per NEP 2020. The symposium started with the inauguration where Dr. Rohini Sharma, Chairperson Department of Computer Science and Applications and coordinator of the program extended welcome to all the dignitaries. She highlighted the importance of multidisciplinarity to solve real life problems. Coordinator of the program Dr. Manisha from Mathematics Department introduced the chief guest Prof. B.K. Kuthiyala, Chairman, Haryana State Higher Education Council and Former Vice-Chancellor MLC University, Bhopal. Prof. B.K. Kuthiyala shared his views on how technology is changing with time and making things easier for humans. He shared that technologies which are coming up every day are being developed to extend the capabilities of human beings but they are still not able to match the capabilities of man. Prof. Y. P Verma, Registrar Panjab University cited the importance of Mathematics and Statistics and how these areas have been complimented by Computer Science. He said that such programs should be organized regularly for the benefit of our young generation. Prof. Anju Goyal, Chairperson Department of Statistics and coordinator of the program proposed vote of thanks to the chief guest and other dignitaries. Prof. Kapil K Sharma from South Asian University explained the relationship between mathematics and computer science by discussing how a real world problem is solved by converting it into mathematical form and applying computational techniques. Prof. Sandeep Sharma from Guru Nanak Dev University Amritsar discussed 'Internet of Things' and its applications in agriculture. He mentioned the role of Artificial Intelligence in the Internet of Things which can solve many complex problems. The declamation contest on 'Role of Computational Sciences in the progress of India' was organized as a part of the symposium where students from the department of Computer Science and Applications, Mathematics and Statistics shared their views. Dr. Bharat from University Institute of Legal Studies acted as judge for the declamation contest. The symposium concluded with valedictory session where participants provided positive and fruitful feedback.

ONE DAY SYMPOSIUM ON "Computational Sciences"

ABOUT THE DEPARTMENTS

Department of Computer Science and Applications

The Computer Culture at the Panjab University dates back to 1966. An independent Centre for Computer Science and Applications (now a full fledged department) was set-up in 1983. The department has an excellent placement record. Major recruiters are Infosys, Deloitte, MediaTek, Quark, Sufi, Nagarro, Indus Valley Partners and many more.

Department of Statistics

Department of Statistics came into existence as a separate entity in 1974 though it existed since 1964 as a part of Department of Mathematics. Based on its high quality teaching and research, the department has been getting financial support for its growth under COSIST, FIST and SAP schemes of UGC and DST. It has been awarded the status of DSA (Department under Special Assistance) by UGC.

ABOUT THE EVENT

The Symposium will be beneficial for the students, scholars and faculty members who work in Computer Science and Statistics. The motive of the event is to explore the interlinking in the two areas which can motivate the students and scholars to exploit this interlinking in their respective studies.

Resource Persons:

(i) Prof. Kapil Sharma, South Asian University, New Delhi.
ii) Prof. Sandeep Sharma, Guru Nanak Dev University, Amritsar.
