About the event:

Online webinar dated 25 April 2020 with mentor Mr. Vishwa Mohan*,* IIT-BHU Alumnus was centred about the role of coding interviews that IT firms hold to provide placements. In total 76 students from the department attended the online workshop.

Session was good, first discussion was about what type of Technical questions generally companies ask in a technical interview, then all the topics which we should prepare before going for a tech interview were explained briefly. After that we did one of the listed topics "2 pointer approach" and some examples for the same. The session was interactive too as sir was taking our doubts periodically.

With these topics he covered the main topics about which interviewers mainly ask questions like 2 pointers approach, sliding windows concept, thinking recursively etc. By giving a brief introduction to all these topics he finally winding up with the session by clearing doubts of the viewers.

Main points covered in the session How to ace coding interviews were:
1. How to prepare for coding round?
2. How to overcome interview fear?
3.What to expect in coding interviews?
4.How to approach problems in interview?
5.Question pattern of the interview was discussed;2 pointer Approach was explained with the help of examples.
6. How to approach a problem in coding interview?
7. Understanding when to use which data structures and algorithms.
8. Anxiety about interview is natural and How to accept it.

Expectations in coding interview were discussed:
1. Aptitude
2. Attitude
3. Analytical Skills
4. Problem solving mindset
5. How to react to unknown problems?

The overall approach to explain the concepts and techniques about the interview preparation and technical interview questions was insightful and helpful. The students were able to grasp all the information provided clearly.
